TO THE BALD-HEADED,

AND all who would have a fine flowing head of hair. Never did it was a truism that there was any thing that would restore hair on bald heads, but the time that one has been that OLD RIDGE'S BEAR'S GREASE, or COMPOUND EXTRACT OF STOCK & ROSE OF JERICHO, will do it in a short time—We have seen it tested, who have it restored after all other remedies had failed, and who have now a head as full of hair as ever, and others who have had but a few hairs restored with the shiny and numerous tufts of a similar kind have lately come to our notice which shall be given hereafter. It is all who are losing their hair for our part that we would not be without this balm on any account.

Boston and the Chapin Law.—I have perused with much interest the able and eloquent argument on the claims of Boston to a City Government. However much this Chapin law may be objected to in principle, strictly speaking, particularly in this age of progress, when almost all the cities of the country are being remodelled to suit the times, there can be no question but that Boston has outgrown the necessity of their present municipal regulations with the exception of their ballot box law, for they were in fact applicable only to a small population, and that, when it was found necessary to adopt the present system, it was done with the view of its being but a temporary measure, and that it was to be superseded by a City Government as soon as the population should require it. But as the majority of the citizens of Boston did not choose to avail themselves of the benefits of the present law, when it was in their power to do so, they must be content to abide by the consequences of their own neglect. But as the majority of the citizens of Boston have now decided that they will have a City Government, it is to be hoped that they will not be so blind to their own interests as to suffer party prejudices to influence them in the selection of their officers, but that they will choose men who are capable of managing the affairs of the city in a manner that will be creditable to the city, and satisfactory to the tax payers. Boston Courier.

Mr. Clay at Home.

A correspondent of the National Intelligencer thus writes from Lexington:

"Mr. Clay left Ashland on Tuesday morning last, and arrived safely at his residence in this city the same day. He was received at the entrance of the city by a large concourse of citizens, who escorted him to his residence, where he was welcomed by a salute of thirteen guns. Mr. Clay looks well, and is in the enjoyment of excellent health. The Constitutional power of Congress to make Treaties.

In the Senate, on the 3d inst. Mr. Webster submitted the following resolutions, which were ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That the Senate of the United States, by the Constitution, is a co-ordinate branch of the treaty-making power, and not merely an executive council to the President.

Resolved, That it is the duty of the Senate, when requested by the President to express its opinion on any subject pending between the United States and any foreign power, to express such opinion fully and freely, and that, in the performance of this duty, it is not bound to look to any other source than its own knowledge and its own judgment for the facts on which such opinion is to be formed.

Resolved, That the Senate, in the performance of its duty as a co-ordinate branch of the treaty-making power, is not bound to keep secret its opinions, or the reasons of its opinions, given to the President, unless by the terms of the treaty, or by the nature of the subject, it is necessary that it should be kept secret
